IN THE MAIL BAG -

Pvt. Eddie H. Sato, 232
Engineers Combat Co.
Somewhere in Italy. . . .
Italy has so many hills
and countless of winding roads and trails, that actually when you travel from one point to the next, the distance in mileage does not amount to much. In fact they drive the drivers daffy. You see so many overturned vehicles, where one-way traffic is possible. As the Hawaiians would say--,"Headache, Dis kind! Bad time!"

Pfc. Kay Sato, 442nd Infantry, Somewhere in Italy..... I visited Rome recently but didn't see as many things as I had wanted to. However, I did visit the Vatican and St. Peter's Church. I saw and heard the Pope who spoke in English and in another foreign language. St. Peter's Church is enormous building and has many huge paintings of the past centuries on the walls. We had a long time to wait on order to see the Pope Pius XII, but it was worth seeing a man, who is so loved by the people. Rome is similar to Naples but the people in Rome seem to be a little better off, for after all Rome was not bombed like Naples. The street cars are free, therefore always filled to the limit.

Sgt. Mike Hagiwara, 2628 Hosp. Sec. Somewhere in Italy I'm getting along fine and am recovering rapidly. Today the doctor took the stitches off my wound and they have begun to heal wonderfully. I've been having a lot of fun in this hospital. There are a lot of boys from Texas and they love to brag about their home State but I come right back and tell them how big Alaska is, how much fish and gold we have. I'm the only one from Alaska so everyone keeps asking questions about Eskimos, snowhouses, glaciers, and Northern Lights and hundreds of other things.... Yesterday, the Red Cross Girls came in and I talked to her a whole hour about Alaska. She is from Buffalo, N. Y. near Gracie's.... She was so excited about Alaska, she said she was going there after the war.

S/Sgt. Pat Hagiwara, Somewhere in Italy.... Just sending a few lines to let you know I am well and doing fine. Of course I am still at the hospital. I guess

I'm living like a rich man or something. I'm now writing from a Red Cross tent next to our ward. Red cross is really a fine unit. They also help the soldiers out somehow and they are always there with the soldiers. No one cannot anytime or in the past regret they ever donated to the Red Cross.

Jean Tatsuda, Chicago, Illinois...We arrived in Chicago on the 15th safely. The weather here is not as hot as I had expected. Howard Suzuki dropped in the other day. My sincerest regards to the church members. Boston, Massachusetts, Dixon Miyauchi.....Sunday afternoon I had a most pleasant visit with Fr. Viall besides seeing Fr. Dale again out at the Cambridge monastery. Last Saturday night I met Akira Takakawa at the monthly Nisei gathering. He was still awaiting his induction into the army, but seemed to be in good spirits as ever. My soft and pleasant life at Hartford is now a thing of the past. This Friday I am getting a ride to the deep south with a young Negro minister. Tats Tajima is doing very well here, working in a church bookstore and keeping out of any serious mischief.

Pvt. George Kakokashi, Fort McClellan, Alabama..... I have been going through one continuous period of training with just one more week to go. Next week, we shall be going out into the fields for tactical problems under stimulated battle conditions. Upon returning to Savage we hope to get a furlough....Haven't attended very many church services except for two or three times. John Yoshida and I went to Anniston to attend services at Grace Church. Last Sunday we got up early to attend the early celebration but we missed the bus so we couldn't make it on time. Please convey my greetings and heartiest gratitude to the members of the Church.

Miyeko Okamoto, Chicago, Illinois,.....Chicago has been attracting several of my friends for the summer. Grace Hagiwara lives only several blocks from me so we have in when we get together. Last weekend Miye Hata came up for the weekend and we all had a wonderful time showing her the town. Johnny is in Camp Blanding and he seems to be getting along swell.
